Arthur M. Clark.

Commander Fitts said that those present at the Legion meeting, at which a delegation was appointed to visit upon Clark, were aware that their action would result in violence.
Technically he said, the whipping of Clark was not officially sanctioned, as the meeting which appointed the committee lacked one of having a quorum.But the meeting was presided over by properly accredited Legion officers," he explained, "and the intent of the meeting was apparent."Commander Fitts said all of the men concerned in the whipping had admitted their acts were indefensible and expressed deep regret for the occurrence. There were many members of the post, he said, who had not sanctioned the appointment of a committee to see Clark.

REPLIES TO LETTER.

Mrs. Malone evidently wrote Mrs.
Flintham a sympathetic letter, for in her next note Mrs. Flintham thanked her.She had given me that freestone diamond ring on my anniversary three years ago, only a month, you see, after he found your case, and as I had always said I wanted just that kind of a ring, it flattered me greatly that he had considered my wishes, but he said he had bought it at Nordlinger's here and wanted me, because of the gift, to care for it."Well, we had been separated for more than a year then, but it was impossible to be reconciled without such a glittering gem. So now it has been over four years since we have lived together under the same roof."Then on Christmas three years ago, he gave me your mother's watch chain to wear with the ring.
Some gold cross my mother gave me, and that I had always wanted too. He said he found it in an antique shop here and I was deeply grateful and proud. I have worn your things freshly, thinking they were mine.So these two articles are all I ever had from him, and I have only one of your list of eighteen pieces.
I have only seven pieces. He wanted me to turn them into money, of course, so he told me a man had given them to him to settle a debt the man owed my husband, which condition required that he should sell them for me. He sold them for services, which my husband had performed for him, so I gladly
consented to help him get the money
out of what few things he showed
me, and I shall never forget how caring he was and how much he loved me. He had died and left him several pieces of jewelry, and
said these were all he had to pay
with and wanted me to use them to cancel the indebtedness."

ACCUSES WIFE.

Attorney Hammond sought to show by these letters that Mrs. Flintham had been unwisely and further that she had endeavored to cause her husband trouble. The court, however, found in favor of Mrs. Flintham and will also endeavor to show next Tuesday, when the trial is resumed, that his wife cruelly taunted him with a picture of an eighteenth century duke, Count de Roman, and that she had

LETTERS TELL OF LOST GEMS.

Notes from Forester's Wife Mention Jewel Gifts.Woman Denies Knowing They Were Found by Husband.Relates How She Accepted Presents in Good Faith.Sensational developments featured the Flintham divorce suit, yesterday. Letters from Mrs. Helen B. Flintham to Mrs. Cora B. Malone of 4117 South Hudson street, Pasadena, were read by Percy Y. Hammond, counsel for Stewart J. Flintham, county forester, the contents of which indicated the anguish of the young wife, whose husband, she said, had given her jewelry to wear that belonged to Mrs. Malone.It developed from Mrs. Flintham's testimony that Mrs. Flintham had given her jewelry which she says, he told her he had received in payment for a debt. Mrs. Flintham subsequently learned, she declared, that her husband had found the jewelry on the road to San Bernardino and that it had been lost by Mrs. Malone. It was retrieved and returned to Mrs. Malone.Mrs. Flintham wrote telling Mrs.
Malone that she was terribly hurt over the affair."I had given him I should have communicated with you at once, but until I succeeded in winning my divorce I could not—I wanted to wait and to you myself and pled with you to make the punishment as light as possible for him because of my dear little children," she wrote.

MAY'S RAINFALL RECORD NEARED.

Moisture Yesterday Totaled Six-tenths of Inch.Amount for Month is Close to Mark of Years Ago.Storm Extends Between North Line and San Diego.Flood conditions along the Colorado River may be expected earlier than usual this year, it is indicated by a telegram sent to railroad officials in California, Texas and Mexico yesterday by the Weather Bureau at Denver.The report said that the quantity of storm water then visible in Colorado and Arizona made it apparent that the Colorado River will reach a point 14.5 feet to 15 feet above low-water mark at Tape, near Needles, Monday or Tuesday.According to the Denver calculations, the river will be about twenty-five feet above low-water mark at Tuma, about the 29th inst., with the discharge running approximately 10,000 feet a second.While these measurements do not touch the flood-danger point, they indicate that the flood stage will be approached by the Colorado River somewhat earlier this year, the Weather Bureau states. It usually begins to reach the alarming stage in June, the weather office says.Breaking all May rainfall records for twenty-nine years, yesterday's storm brought this city 41 of an inch of moisture and was felt quite generally over all portions of the State.The rainfall seems to have been heaviest in this county, with the high mark reached by Van Nuys with 1.64 inches, while Burbank reported 1.1 of an inch. Los Angeles had 1.04 inches, and with 12 inches for the season. Last year's rainfall was 12.45 inches.
Normal rainfall is 15.4 inches.Bishop reported .61 of an inch of rain, and that there was quite a lot of rain in the mountains.
Using plenty of hydroelectric power for the summer, it seemed last year that the rainfall was not so great.
Bishop stated that today showers and moderately fresh winds are probable.

RAIN SETS RECORD.

Col. H. B. Hersey, meteorologist of the Weather Bureau, stated that yesterday's rainfall makes this month the wettest May since 1892, when 5.64 inches of rain fell.
Discussing the shyness tendency of the month, Hersey said that the condition required that he should
sell them for me. He sold them for
services, which my husband had
performed for him, so I gladly
consented to help him get the money
out of what few things he showed
me, and I shall never forget how
caring he was and how much he
loved me. He had died and left
him several pieces of jewelry, and
said these were all he had to pay
with and wanted me to use them to cancel the indebtedness."In May, 1892, the rainfall was 5.64 inches. Nine years earlier it was 2.62 inches. Since then the high spots have been May, 1899, with 1.1 inches; May, 1901, with 1.60 inches; and May, 1906, with 1.62 inches. In May a year ago the rainfall was 1.04 inches. The precipitation, amounting to 1.04 inches in 1892, all fell in a single day, according to the records.June deserves considerable credit among the late-rain months. It does not often rain in June, but when it does it pours. For instance, in June of 1884, .39 inches of rain fell, and in 1913, a single day's storm. In 1899 June's rain registered .48 of an inch, and the same amount in June of 1913. Since then the June rains have averaged less than .10 of an inch.

parative rainfall figures in inches:

PLANES STIR UP SAND ON BEACH.

Venice Finds Them Among Nudists and Foulers Air Traffic Law.

Five years ago an airplane was a curiosity; during the war they became interesting attractions, and now, if the official board of the city of Venice is to be believed, have become nuisances.

The wind from the propellers when they fly too low over the bathing beaches throws sand in the bathers' eyes, according to Mayor Coles, and it is urged that the city take steps to protect itself and its visitors.

A resolution now before the Venice Board of Trustees prescribes a set of air traffic laws which will apply to all craft navigating the atmosphere surrounding the resort city.

Venice had the first aerial policeman in the world.

report states, while the average butter fat content of Los Angeles milk is one-tenth of 1 per cent higher than the San Francisco requirement, the report states further, "and one-half of 1 per cent higher than the State law minimum."

PRICES COMPARED.

Dr. Powers' figures on Pacific Coast prices are as follows:

Grade A, raw: Los Angeles, 15 cents; San Francisco, 13 cents; Oakland, 14 cents; San Diego, 17 cents; Portland, 12 to 14 cents; Seattle, 12 cents.

"I am unable to suggest any modification of the sanitary regulations which, as they stand, are necessary to protect the citizens of Los Angeles, and particularly those of tender years," his report states. "Un- derstand that the present require- ments are not burdensome, the de- partment insists that any tendency to use sanitary requirements as an excuse for unreasonable prices is contrary to public welfare. On the other hand, the value of the lives of infants cannot be quoted in cents per quart."

PRODUCERS CALLED.

At the opening of the grand jury's investigation regarding the price distribution and sale of milk yester- day, four independent producers were called. Although Don, El- Atty. Powell, who is conducting the inquiry, declined to comment upon the testimony, it was learned that some producers state that from 7 1/2 to 8 cents a quart, paid them by distributors, would give them a fair profit, that they receive not over 3 cents and many times have to sell at 2 cents per quart.

It was also disclosed that a few independent producers were told by certain distributors that they did not care to buy milk from the in- dependent producers, but would do so if they insisted, paying them 3 cents per quart. The purchasers, it was said, did not care to in- crease the supply too much. When butter fat was bought it was used for butter fat. The investigation will be resumed Monday.

RODMAN LEAVES COAST MONDAY.

Admiral Probably Will Not Return to Local Post. But Wishes to Reside Here After His Retirement.

Promises to Continue Work for Pacific Ports.

Admiral Rodman, commander-in- chief of the Pacific Fleet, will bid farewell to the ships of his command and to Southern California on Monday morning, when he will leave for Washington on naval business. The admiral is not expected to return here for the Navy, as it is believed he will be relieved of command of the fleet while in the East.

At the Hotel Virginia, at Long Beach, last night, Admiral Rodman expressed the deepest regret at hav- ing to leave Southern California, and stated that he hopes to purchase a home near Los Angeles after re- tiring from the Navy.

The admiral will leave Monday over the Salt Lake for Washington on temporary duty as a member of the selection board, to be convened on the 31st inst., to choose officers from the rank of captain to rear- admirals, respectively. Admiral Rodman will continue as commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet during his absence, and until his regular successor has been ap- pointed. He expressed the belief that he will be replaced within the next few weeks or while he is in Wash- ington.

WILLIAMS FOR HELM.

During Admiral Rodman's absence, Vice-Admiral Clarence S. Williams will be in immediate charge of the fleet, and until Admiral Rodman's successor reports for duty on this Coast.

While no orders have been re- ceived to that effect, it is generally understood that Admiral Rodman is to be assigned to command the Fifth Naval District, with headquarters at Hampton Roads, Va. Upon relinquishing command of the Pacific Fleet, his title will revert to rear- admiral.

"I have never had a more agree- able tour of duty," Admiral Rodman stated last night. "Not only I, but all of the officers and men have been most cordially and hospitably received."

"It is with a feeling of deepest regret that I am leaving this sta- tion. I shall retire in January, 1923, at the age of 64 years, and upon my retirement I shall endeavor to in- deed to purchase a home and live here."

GLAD TO CO-OPERATE.

The residents of Southern Cali- fornia have taken a deep interest in the Navy, and have proved a big help to us. It has been very great pleasure for me to become a member of the chambers of commerce of the principal seaports, and to work with them in plans for harbor de- velopments."

While it is currently rumored that Admiral Rodman will succeed Ad- miral Eberle as the new com- mander-in-chief. Rear Admiral Twining, Admiral Rodman's chief of staff, is expected to be replaced by a man to be named by the new commander-in-chief.

"Though I am leaving the Pacific Coast, I will always do my best to promote its interests just as I have done in the past," the admiral said. He will be accompanied East by Mrs. Rodman, who will stop off at Frankfurt, Ky., to visit relatives.

BERRY BANK ACCOUNT AIRED IN BUNCO CASE.

LARGE DEPOSIT MADE AFTER ASSURED SWINDLE, SAY PROSECUTORS.

Details regarding the bank ac- count of Otis B. Berry, former as- sistant cashier of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, were gone into yesterday at his trial before Judge Reeve on a charge of aiding bunco men in their operations in this city. Clarence Lockme, a clerk of the Hellman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, testified that Berry, in January and March, 1920, Berry deposited $15,000.

Atty. Stafford and Keyes that $2400 in currency was deposited in the account four days after Berry's de- posit. Berry was bailed out of $14,000 in an asserted fake stock deal. The depositions also stated that Berry's salary at the time was $250 a month, though he had another in- come.

Mr. Stafford announced last night that William Schneider, who testi- fied he lost considerable money to bunco men, yesterday went to the County Jail and arrested Fred Mayne, recently convicted on a bunco charge, as the man he knew as Hamilton, who was one of the bunco men who defrauded him, he said.

The case will be resumed on Mon- day.

DEATH INQUIRY ENDS.

Coroner Signs Certificate in Double Tragedy; Inquest Waived.

Police investigations of the suicide of G. H. Wietrick, who killed himself early Thursday evening after shooting down Mrs. Fay Viola Morris, were closed late yesterday when Coroner Nance signed death certificates for the two after an in- quest had been waived.

From the mortuary at Alvarado & Blue, where both bodies were taken, announcements were made that the body of Mrs. Morris had been sent to Hastings, Neb., while that of her slayer will be shipped to Santa Clara.

Police, according to the police, shot and killed Mrs. Morris when he learned that she was about to return to her husband in Ontario. The husband, James E. Morris, who conducts a garage in Ontario, called at the undertaker's establishment and the police station yesterday. It was learned that Mrs. Morris left her home some time ago following a quarrel.

Wins Suit for Curios-Loaned for Film Plays.

Edward S. Curtis, a writer and au- thority on Indians, while employed by the Catherine Curtis Corporation loaned it skins, leggings, and wig for use in film plays. When the curios were not returned, he brought suit against the corporation for $10,000.

The suit was tried by Judge Conklin yesterday. The corpora- tion was represented by an attorney, but no witnesses were called for the defendant company. Mr. Curtis, asserted he would prefer to have the curios instead of the money. He said he had been informed that the curios were taken to New York.

In the answer of the defendant, it was stated that Curtis was "a guesser of mental veracity di- rectly proportionate to his grandiose, but unscientific, incompetent, impracticable ideas; a dotting dream- er," etc. Judge Conklin gave judg- ment in favor of Mr. Curtis for $450.

AUTHOR REVEALS SUCCESS SECRET.

Worked Hard from Childhood, Clubwomen Are Told.

Verse Writer at Ten, Asserts Alice Duer Miller.

City Librarian Perry Urges Bond Issue Victory.

BY MYRA NYE.

To know when to cling is the most important knowledge women may possess. This is one of the philosophies, gently satirical, of Alice Duer Miller, author, playwright and poet, who read from manuscript before the Friday Morning Club yesterday her latest creation, "Man-slaughter," which will appear serially in the Saturday Evening Post beginning next month. If appearance is an index of personality, Mrs. Miller typifies her own philosophy. She is at once charmingly feminine and yet strongly vivid in her originality.

"I began to write before I knew how to spell. I would be waiting until I could spell," said Mrs. Miller, reviewing her literary biography. My first poem, written before I was 10, began, 'The shades of night, forlorn the night,' which my older sister promptly parodied, 'Electric light will make it bright.' Other close friends made fun of my writing as close friends will, but I put on until my freshman year in college, when I sold three fables to Harper's Magazine.

"I thought I had to have Latin to write, so, although I did not know a word of it, the July preceding the college entrance examination in September I passed in Caesar, Cicero and Virgil. I had no aptitude for foreign languages. I just studied. I was at it all through the hot summer of last year, and I was a day late for my first class in Latin."

"Mathematics and literature were always my two loves and I was torn between them until I married after I graduated. I went to South America with my husband instead of accepting the head of the department of mathematics in a southern college. There I wrote my first novel, 'The Modern Obstacle.' Then I gave myself up entirely to my first love. Only once was I untrue to it and that was when I wrote propaganda for the suffrage cause. For three years every Sunday under a frivolous guise I had a propaganda column in the New York Tribune. I called my department 'Are Women People' and afterward, hatched up a little, it made a paying book."

"Come Out of the Kitchen" and "The Charm School" are two of Mrs. Miller's novels which were changed into successful plays.

"When first I heard my lines on the stage I thought, 'What wonderful actors, but what a fool I am.' Later I thought just the opposite."

BOND ISSUE URGED.
City Librarian Perry presented to the club the need of victory on the library bond issue, which will be before the people June 7. He said the expenses of moving, from the Honorable Laughton Building to the Metropolitan Building, was $15,000 in addition to $25,000 spent in rent with the people now having nothing to show for the expenditure. He brought out the fact that the present lease for which the rent is 45 cents a square foot expires in three years when the rate will be no less than $2.50 a square foot.

In the last ten years the population of the city has almost doubled, while the circulation of books has more than trebled, amounting to more than 2,000,000 last year. That three-fourths of school children in the grades from the sixth on have library cards were points emphasized by Mr. Perry.

A man who owns a home valued at $10,000 will have to pay but $9 cents a year tax for a new library. That sum would take him to the movies once with his wife or run his car one afternoon. Surely every one can afford it when the tax for each one is so small.

RAFS DUPLICATION.
"Our State is sometimes called 'Mother California,'" said State Controller Chambers, an after-luncheon speaker, "but any mother who takes her child's money and spends it unwisely is not a good parent."

The State officer then made clear his sentiment that humanitarian laws are all right, but that it was time to call a halt. "It takes $20,000,000 a year merely for State operation. We can not save unless we abandon some of the functions that work through many missions. We have taken on new functions too rapidly. The great loss we sustain annually is through duplication and unnecessary functions. Our expenses have increased 142 percent in ten years, until today a budget of $15,000,000, I would not like to be in his shoes. Public utilities collect the funds. Diminishing returns rate so high that it will drive any business. You pay it all. We must remember that this is an agricultural State. We used to live off the Golden State, but now $488,000,000 comes from agricultural sources, and that is double all other returns put together. We must be willing to do much for our citrus and all agricultural industries. We should not hesitate to spend the needed sums for the conservation of water for irrigation, and hydroelectric energy. Agricultural activities are the wealth and glory of our State."

Other speakers were Miss Elizabeth Kinney, State Inheritance Tax Appraiser, and Mrs. Martelle Lane of Humboldt county, speaking in behalf of the conservation of California's redwoods.

"What would you think if we diverted Niagara into mud puddles, if we allowed advertisers to put up signs all over the walls of the Grand Canyon? Something worse is being done to the agricultural industry. The oldest living things in the world, at the present rate of cutting, forty years will see the end of the present stand of trees. An acre of them can not live alone. They must have each other to withstand the elements," she said.

SEEKS HEAVY DAMAGES.

LUCY A. Roberts, employed by Belle Cooper at 2321 South Flower street, demands $10,000 damages for purported assault and false imprisonment in a suit filed against Jessie Cooper yesterday. She declares that her belongings were thrown into old boxes and then tossed into the yard and that she was thrust into a room, imprisoned for half an hour and later turned over to a policeman.

New Dutch Ware Furnishes High Notes in Color.

The new Gouda ware, which is reflecting the enthusiastic endorsement of lovers of the quaint and picturesque in bric-a-brac, offers infinite possibilities for the striking of a high color note in rooms, which seem to need just this accentuation to give character to their atmosphere.

This fascinating pottery is as Dutch as its name suggests and has only recently been shown to any extent in this country. On a surface of indeterminate tone it shows decorations of clear, strong reds and blues and greens, reminiscent of the windmills, or the brilliancy of Holland skies on a sunny day.

The ware comes in various shapes, all pleasing to the eye, flower jars, candlesticks and plaques, which look their best against a wall of neutral shading or reflected from the dull surface of a table or sculpture of dark wood.

The Daily Fun Hour.

PATCHED PROVERBS.

One player goes out of the room or stands beyond hearing distance if the game is played on a porch or out of doors. The others seat themselves in a circle and agree upon a proverb. For beginners familiar proverbs are best, but after players become expert they can experiment with national and family mottoes, with proverbs of one nation, at a time and with short poetical quotations.

When the absent player, called the patcher, is recalled he begins to question each player in turn, and from their answers he must pick out the words to patch up the proverb. Each player must have one word of the selected proverb in his answer to the patcher's question and these words must follow their original order in the proverb.

For instance, supposing that the proverb chosen is, "Time and tide wait for no man." The patcher may ask player No. 1, "What do you think of the weather?" and he may answer: "It is (or not) as fine as it ought to be at this time of year." Then he asks No. 2, "Are you good at figures?" No. 3 may say, "Well, I know that two and two make four." So, going the rounds, the patcher asks No. 4, "What is your favorite season?" who may answer, "Summer twilight at low tide."

The key word, "tide," may enable the patcher to complete the proverb without additional questioning. If not, he goes on to the next player with, "What is a proverb about 'proverb'?" to which the answer can be "They also serve who only stand and wait." If he fails to question all the players the patcher must go out again. When he guesses correctly the players whose answers have given him the clue to the proverb must be the patcher of the next proverb.

Cheese is not "just Cheese" when it's Tillamook!

At once you'll notice a vast improvement in flavor when you use Tillamook Cheese. The simplest dishes become delicious. Serve macaroni and cheese or potatoes au gratin using Tillamook. You'll find a new deliciousness—a different flavor. They become dishes fit for an epicure.

Or, try this: Toast slices of bread crisply brown; lay generous pieces of Tillamook Cheese on them and place in the oven—just for two minutes. Eat while hot. Simple, but how tasty!

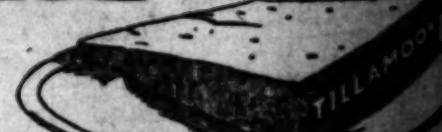

There's a good reason for the superiority of Tillamook Cheese. Five quarts of full cream milk go into the making of every pound. The most careful, scientific supervision is in force in the 24 Tillamook Kitchens. Look for Tillamook on the rind if you want cheese that is always uniformly good.

Ask your grocer for Tillamook Cheese—sold by the slice or in 6-pound and 14-pound units

MAKES MORE THAN RAIN TO FAZE MARY BROWNE.

New Arrival in Golf Firmament Wins
Southern Title from Doreen Kavanagh at Midwick.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Miss Mary Browne of the Los Angeles Country Club is the new Southern California golf champion, yesterday having defeated Doreen Kavanagh, also of the Los Angeles Country Club, 1 up at the nineteenth hole, in one of the most thrilling and exciting matches ever played in the south.

Rain fell steadily throughout the contest, drenching players and the handful of spectators alike to the skin; the Midwick course was slippery and spongy and the greens were cluttered up with pools of water.

CHEERS FOR MARY.

But brave little Mary Browne, unshaken by obstacles that would have upset a more experienced tournament player and displaying rare qualities of grit and courage, won out in a dime novel finish that left the onlookers gasping with amazement.

After the first hole, which was a par for both, Mary Browne was 1 down after the second hole, but she was not to be fazed. She captured it with a 6. The seventh hole had been Miss Browne's, but she put for a 5, after driving one out of bounds, hung on the edge of the cup.

The eighth went to Miss Browne with a splendid par 5, and she was 2 down. The ninth was halved in the tenth, which she won with a 5. Miss Kavanagh taking three putts, the eleventh went to Miss Kavanagh when Miss Browne conceded it after playing four shots to reach Miss Kavanagh's second.

IN A ROAD.
Miss Kavanagh encountered trouble on the twelfth with a pulled iron shot. She landed in a road and it took her two from there to reach the hole. She was 3 up. The thirteenth went to Miss Browne with a par 3 and she was all square.

Miss Kavanagh with the next two holes in 4 and 5, respectively, and she appeared to have the match clinched, being 2 up. She was on the sixteenth green in three, where Miss Browne did likewise.

Miss Kavanagh with a par 3 and she was all square. Miss Browne's stirring finish on the last three holes has been rare. Considering the elements which were all against a display of good golf, the fair contestants played finely enough.

After the caddies had taken soundings in the water pools and discovered by some high and low peering that Miss Kavanagh was an eyelash away the players' balls were lifted to localities where they were out of the hole. Miss Kavanagh rallied up to within four feet of the hole. Miss Browne was away. She putted and the ball went three feet beyond the hole. It was up to Miss Browne again, and once more she rose to the emergency. The ball struck the hole and she was the winner.

TAKE SOUNDINGS.

Knockouts continued last evening at the A.A.U. boxing championships in the L.A.A.C. The average bout was the ten-minute slugfest match, and so delighted the fans.

One of the best exhibitions last night was Zuke vs. DeHitts, of the 135-pound class. Zuke, an athlete built on the general plan of a boxer, handled his opponent with scientific wallop, and scored a technical knockout in the third round.

Sailor Williams of the U.S.S. Mississippi, mixed it with Ad Algrini of the Athletic Club in a fast battle of the 158-pound division, and repeated his performance of Thursday night by flooring Algrini for the count in the second round.

ROOF GARDENS LIKE SHOWERS.

But the Rain Brings Little Benefit to Baseball.

Animated Flivver Stages Show
at Washington Park.

Unique Double Blowout Attracts Quite a Crowd.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Aside from the roof gardens, the rain brought no particular benefit to the baseball players. It summed up the great national pastime, and increased the work of the hay farmers. Messrs. Killefer, Crawford, Ellis and other well-known producers of hay sympathies must now untangle their hay for the second time this year, and spread it out to dry. Shuffling their hay crop is becoming the greatest of outdoor sports, and is rapidly replacing baseball.

MAKING IT NICE.

However, those roof gardens, which raise their own garden truck between the dining tables, benefited. Vegetables direct from the soil to the consumer is the slogan of the roof garden ranchers. Patrons of the place can now appear corn on the stalk while cucumber vines laden with fruit are rapidly climbing the sides of the legs. One vine accidentally started to climb the leg of a lady, but not desiring to acquire any foliage, she moved with the celerity of a rolling stone escaping from the moss.

Only a few channel cat fish made their way to the ball park, which was the scene of the first double blowout ever accomplished by one automobile. The flivver was stationed just across from the yard with its hind wheels parked in the gutter, which was filled with water from the green Verdugo hills.

Of these three, which was a one-lunger suffering from tuberculosis, expired with a dying gasp. There was just one pop, and all seemed to be over. The tire flattened and folded up, and appeared resigned to its fate. All efforts to resuscitate it were unavailing. The flivver was towed to the garage, and the game was postponed.

Those only just about half sick with the flu, and who were not yet able to get out of bed, were the only ones who showed up. Everybody was "ale and early."
